

It appears to me that most of the media in this country are in the hands of three or four individuals such as Ted Turner and Rupert Murdoch. The lines between advertising, entertainment and news no longer exist (Witness the introduction of Vanilla Coke as a news item on morning shows). The result is abysmal coverage exemplified during the recent war, which could be confirmed by looking no farther than BBCI. You have sold the interest of the people whom you purport to serve to the corporate profiteers and politicians. Shame on you.
